Jews around the world can participate in High Holiday services right from the comfort of their homes via OurJewishCommunity.org, the world's first progressive online synagogue. OurJewishCommunity.org will be video-streaming two Rosh Hashanah and two Yom Kippur services live. There will also be a pre-recorded Memorial Service featuring photos that the web site's participants submitted of deceased family members that they are remembering. All of the services will also be archived for future viewing.

Less than 50% of Jews in America are affiliated with a congregation. But, many of the unaffiliated Jews desire a connection to Judaism that they have not yet found. OurJewishCommunity.org takes an innovative approach to Judaism, and brings Judaism to people's lives through computers, iPods, and smart phones.

All of the services will be led by Rabbi Robert B. Barr and Rabbi Laura Baum at Congregation Beth Adam in Cincinnati. Beth Adam is an independent congregation that has written all of its own liturgy.
